PERSONAL PROFILE

Enthusiastic, focussed and self motivated Junior Software developer eager to find an entry level position into the tech industry that will both challenge me and grow my development experience.
Core technical skills include Python, Javascript and I have experience working in Agile development environments.
I am continually evaluating and upgrading my skills so that I stay at the cutting edge of software development and currently I am developing skills in React Native.
I would like to get more hands-on experience with app development and backend infrastructure.
 I work well in teams & individual settings to drive product success and process efficiency.
